

Idea to Apply — Instant Multi-Lingual Concierge for Boutique Luxury Hotels

Selected concept plus a detailed plan for putting it into action.

The Idea

The Problem: Paris is full of 4- and 5-star boutique hotels. High-paying international guests (from the US, Middle East, Asia) message the hotel on Instagram, WhatsApp, or their website at 3 AM Paris time asking things like whether the hotel can book a spa for tomorrow, or secure a table at a top restaurant. The night staff often doesn't speak perfect English or isn't authorized to make these high-ticket bookings. The guest gets frustrated and books elsewhere.

The Product: An AI automation (n8n + OpenAI) connected to their Instagram DMs, WhatsApp, or website widget.

- How it works: When a guest messages in any language, the AI instantly replies in their native language. It accesses an Airtable database you set up for the hotel (containing their partner restaurants, spa services, local tours, and availability).
- The AI: Answers FAQs, upsells premium experiences (e.g., adding a private chauffeur), and logs the request into Airtable for the morning staff to execute.
- How it makes them money: It captures high-ticket upsells (private drivers, VIP restaurant bookings, spa packages) that they would have otherwise missed because of time zones or language barriers.
- Your Proof: After a 2-week free trial, you show the hotel owner an Airtable dashboard summarizing the late-night upsell requests your bot captured and their total value — then extrapolate that to a full year.

The Execution Plan

1. Niche-Specific vs. General Website

Go 100% niche-specific. If you sell to everyone, you sell to no one. Parisian hotels get pitched by general marketing agencies constantly. But if your website has a name like ConciergeFlow AI or ParisHotelAI, and the headline reads: "We help 4-star boutique hotels capture late-night international bookings using AI," you immediately separate yourself from the crowd. You aren't an "AI agency"; you are a specialist in hotel revenue.

2. The "One-Page" Strategy

Instead of a full website, build a single, hyper-professional landing page (using Framer, Carrd, or Webflow). It should take two days maximum. It only needs four sections:

- The Hook: "Are you losing €5,000+ a month in late-night international upsells?"
- The Solution: "An AI concierge that replies instantly in 30+ languages, books spa treatments, and captures leads while your staff sleeps."
- The Offer: "14-Day Free Trial. We build it, we integrate it, you keep the revenue. No credit card required."
- The Call to Action: "Book a 10-minute discovery call."

3. The "Review" Problem: Show, Don't Tell

Fake text reviews like a one-line quote attributed to a made-up guest look terrible, and savvy hotel managers will ignore them. Since you don't have clients yet, you can't use reviews. Instead, use a Proof of Concept demo. Business owners don't care about your past clients; they care about what you can do for them right now.

Here is how you build credibility without reviews:

- Build a Live Interactive Demo. Create a dummy WhatsApp account or a simple web chat on your landing page. Connect it to your n8n + Airtable backend. Fill the Airtable with fake hotel data (e.g., a spa booking at 8 PM, a private boat tour on the Seine, a restaurant reservation).
- On your landing page, put a big button: "Try the AI Concierge Live." Let the hotel manager type a real request, like asking for a spa appointment tomorrow morning plus a taxi to the airport. Let them watch the AI reply instantly in perfect English, French, or Japanese, book the spa, and log the taxi request.
- When a hotel manager sees your product working live, they don't care if you have zero past clients. The product speaks for itself.

4. How to Get Real, Credible Reviews Later

Once you do your first 14-day free trial and it goes well, don't ask for a text review. Ask for a video testimonial or a LinkedIn recommendation.

- The Video Testimonial: Tell the hotel manager you're glad the AI brought in real upsell revenue that week, and ask if you can record a short 60-second video of them explaining what you did and the results, as part of your case study. Put that raw video on your website. Video cannot be faked, and it builds massive trust.
- Google Reviews: Create a Google Business Profile for your niche company. Send the link to the manager and ask them to leave a review there. Google verifies businesses, so other prospects know the reviews are real.

Your Action Plan for the Next 7 Days

- 1 Days 1-2: Build the backend (n8n, Airtable, OpenAI API) for the Hotel Concierge. Make sure it can answer FAQs and "book" things by logging them.
- 2 Days 3-4: Build a clean, one-page website. Use a professional template. Add the live demo widget to the site.
- 3 Days 5-7: Start your warm outreach. Find 20 boutique hotels in Paris (avoid massive chains like Marriott or Hilton; target independent 4-star hotels in the 8th or 16th arrondissements). Call them or walk in if you can sit in the lobby, show them the live demo on your phone, and offer the 14-day free trial.

Don't overthink the website. The n8n automation you build is your credibility. Build the demo, put it on a one-pager, and start offering it for free.
